Another school bond? WUSD ponders choices after Measure S sputters

■ The problem was either low turnout among bond supporters or a simple shortage of supporters. Either way, the school district will be left to re-think how to fund K-8 & other programs.

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Only about 24.4 percent of West Sacramento's 19,000 registered voters turned in a ballot last week. Those who did split their voices about evenly between "yes" and "no" on Measure S, an ambitious $59 million school bond proposed by the Washington Unified School District.

The resulting 50.5 percent support wasn't enough. The bond needed 55 percent approval to pass. When all the votes were counted, only 2,343 voters gave their consent. Opposing them were 2,301 "no" ballots.

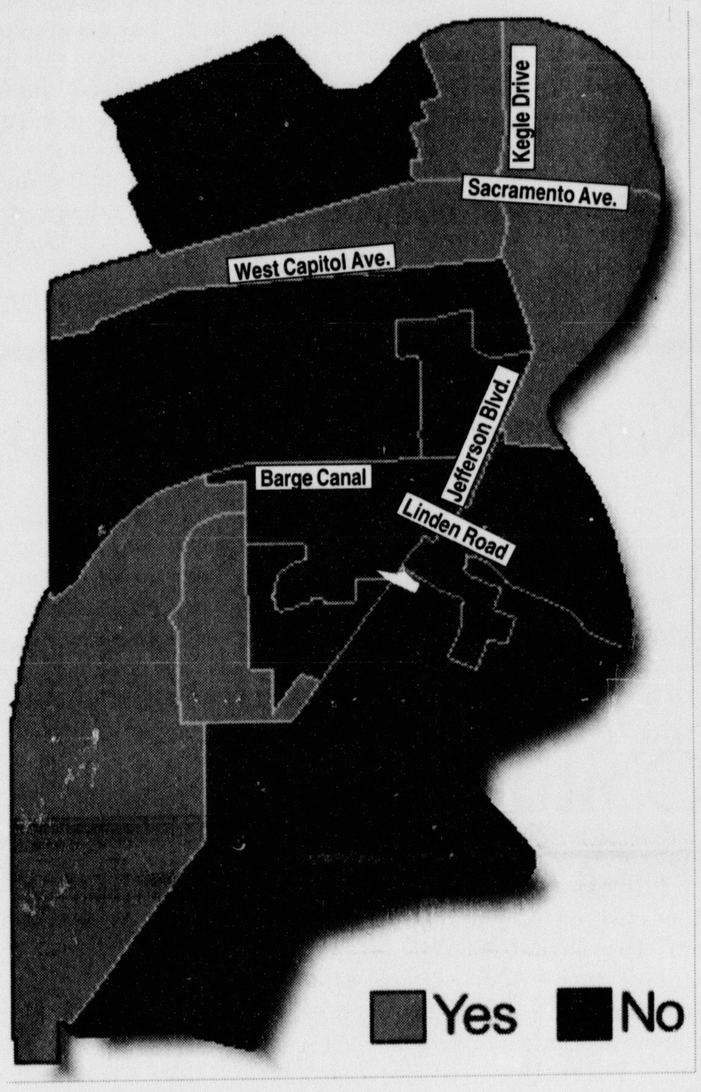
One school board member this week said he is mourning a "lost opportunity" – and ready to try again.

"I'm very disappointed that we weren't able to get the votes out to pass the bond," said board member Matthew Stegman. "It was extremely low voter turnout. Although many parents and members of the community were very supportive of the measure, I don't think we got the votes out."

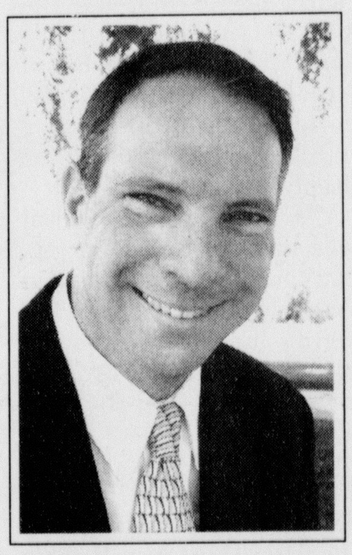
In comparison to West Sacramento's 24.4 percent voter turnout, the turnout in Davis, which had a pair of parcel taxes on the ballot for its libraries and schools, saw 32.8 percent turnout. But Woodland, whose ballot hosted only a trustee's seat election for the Yolo County School Board, drew only 16.9 percent of its registered voters to the ballot box.

West Sacramento's "Measure S" aimed to bring facilities changes and improvements district wide – helping to build a new performing arts center at the soon-to-be-finished new high school, providing money to expand local elementary schools to absorb the middle-school grades, and improving libraries and other facilities on older campuses. The bond measure was regarded as vital to the district's plans to make its elementary school campuses "K-8," or kindergarten through eighth grade, schools.

The school board hasn't met since the election. But Stegman, speaking only for himself, isn't ready to back away from the K-8 program or the possibility of another school bond soon.



LIGHTER-COLORED portions of this city map voted 'Yes' in 55 percent or higher proportions; darker areas of the city gave the school bond less than 55 percent support. This precinct map has some landmarks added. (Modified from Yolo County Elections Department original map)



MATTHEW STEGMAN
WUSD Board Member

"We have to work on finding another way to do it," Stegman said of the challenge of paying for the K-8 conversions. Those expanded elementary school sites will need "middle school" facilities such as science labs on each campus. "Maybe we can use portables (temporary classrooms) or other ways. The school board decided in March we needed to go K-8, and we're committed to making those changes."

Stegman didn't know when a new bond measure might be proffered.

"I think there's a strong possibility we will go back out to convince the community we need to pass a similar bond," he said. "Unfortunately, in California, the way you build facilities is by passing school bonds. A majority of people in the city understood we needed to do this. We worked very hard to turn out the vote, but there was not the turnout we needed."

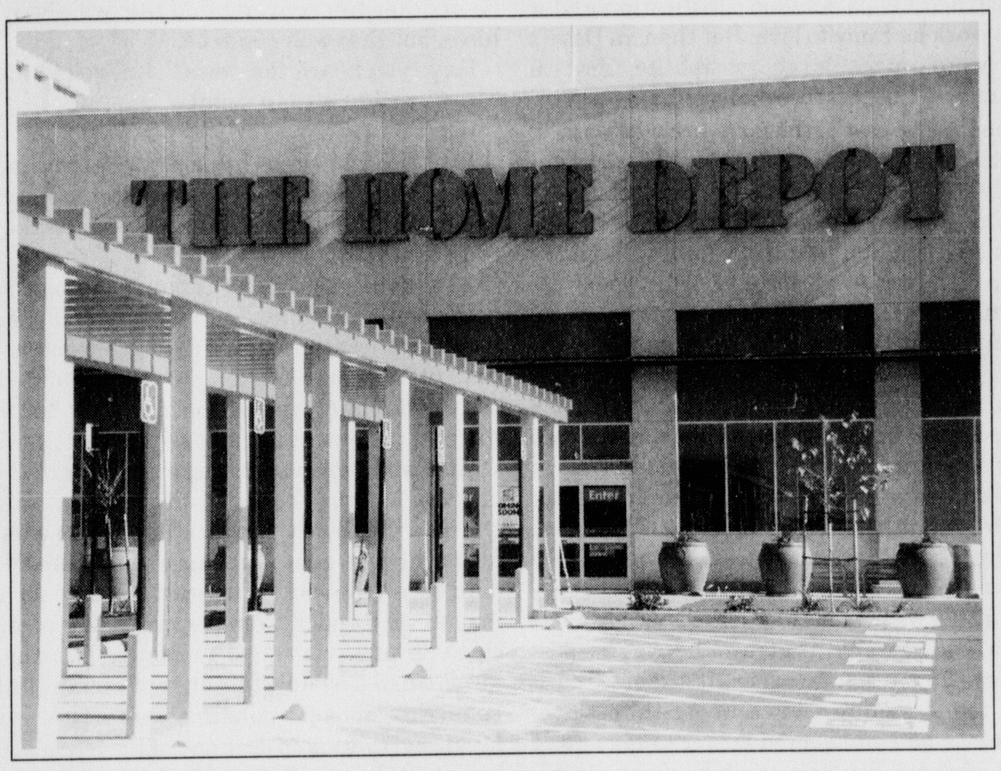
Bond opponent Dani Langford questioned whether most West Sacramentans truly supported Measure S, and whether the "Yes on Measure S" campaign's problem truly was low voter turnout.

"If people were as supportive as they're saying," said Langford, "they would have shown up at the polls."

What does Langford think the school board ought to do next – specifically regarding its plans to phase out Golden State Middle School and expand elementary schools throughout WUSD to absorb grades seven and eight?

"I think they need to reexamine what they started, and go back to what the (district's K-8 task force) recommended," answered Langford. "They need to go back to having three K-8 schools, and go back to what we were told when the first bond passed – which is that River City will become a second junior high, and we will keep Golden State Middle School. That way you're serving the needs of all the kids in the community."

GRAND OPENING



A new Home Depot store will hold a "grand opening" ceremony tomorrow. Keeping with the home improvement theme, the event will feature not a ribbon cutting but a "board cutting."

The store is located at Riverpoint Marketplace, near a new Wal-Mart superstore and an Ikea home furnishings store. Home Depot is located at 690 RiverPoint Court, off of Harbor Boulevard (north of West Capitol Avenue).

Store manager Deborah Bates reports that the new store will feature the chain's "latest floor plan" including a home décor section, installation services, tool rental and garden center.

Home Depot is the world's largest home improvement retailer.

The Swedish retailer Ikea was the first "big box" retailer to open its doors in West Sacramento, arriving last year in West Sacramento near I-80 and Reed. It was followed this year by Wal-Mart (also at RiverPoint) and Target (in the Southport Town Center, near Nugget.

A Lowe's home improvement store is under construction on Lake Washington Boulevard in Southport.

'Experience Motel' is no more

■ Adult motel boarded up; city seeks to relocate residents of adjacent rentals -- then pursue other plans for West Capitol property

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The West Sacramento City Council tonight will be asked to approve the demolition of three residential rental buildings on West Capitol Avenue that are deemed too expensive to fix. The units are part of a property that included the former "Experience Motel," a pink-colored adult motel at 820-824 West Capitol Avenue.

The city bought the property for $3.13 million in June from Almarra LLC, which had dropped its plans to redevelop the site into high-density housing.

"The three rental buildings are at 820 West Capitol," explained Tina Gontarski, director of the Housing and Community Investment department of the City of West Sacramento. "We are working with each individual family to find any special needs they have. In the three residential buildings there were a total of nine units, eight of which were occupied."

The city will be obligated to help these residents find other housing, she added. The cost of that relocation is expected to be $200,000 or less.

The motel is out of business and boarded up.

In a report to the council, Gontarski said that a consultant estimated it would cost $566,500 to replace the sewer system for the apartment buildings, and the structures themselves "are in such poor physical condition that their continued use as residences is not justified."

Residents have received 90-day notices informing them they will have to leave.

What lies in the future for the old motel and rental site?

"We will probably be issuing an RFP (request for proposals) in the near future," said Gontarski. "I think the property is now entitled for high-density residential units. I think we probably could look at a mixed-use project as well."

Through the RFP process, private parties will be asked to submit their own competitive plans to acquire and develop the site.

'Meth' raid on Pine Street

The Yolo Narcotics Enforcement Team (YONET, a coalition of Yolo County law enforcement agencies including the West Sacramento police) reports making arrests at a suspected drug sales location. According to YONET:

Agents of YONET, along with the West Sacramento Community Response Team, served a search warrant at 827 Pine Street, apartment 47, last Wednesday. It was the residence of Martin Alderete, 37. They detained three men and a woman in the apartment's living room: Alderete, 37-year old Angel Gonzalez, 27-year old Alexander Maravilla and 44-year old Schauntell Fullmer.

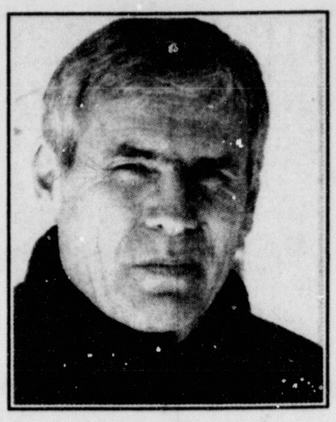
During a search of the apartment, the agents turned up about a half pound of crystal methamphetamine, two digital scales, packaging material, "pay owe sheets" (sales and account balance sheets), and about $1,600 in cash, said YONET. One suspect, Alexander Maravilla, was found to have about 1/16 ounce of crystal methamphetamine in a pants pocket.

The three men were arrested and booked into jail on drug charges; Fullmer was arrested for being a place were drugs were used or sold and was released at the scene.

Gonzalez was on parole from Sacramento on a domestic violence charge.

Dave Fesmire: a life devoted to helping others

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

As I write this, it's Veterans Day, and like many people in West Sacramento, there's an American flag floating in the soft breeze in front of my house. But I am not really thinking about past and present wars, or even of the ones politicians will no doubt want us to fight in the future. Instead, I am thinking of just one Vietnam veteran, Dave Fesmire, who wasn't even in-country when I was there in 1969 and 1970. In fact, I didn't even meet Dave until the summer before last, but like countless other veterans who belonged to Darkhorse (the call sign of my unit in Vietnam), he enriched my life in a very important way.

First, a little history. Dave was born on an Air Force base in Virginia, grew up in the Sacramento area, and by his very early 20's had already served two tours of combat duty in Vietnam as a helicopter crewchief. Like many returning Vietnam veterans, Dave chose to put his memories of that war in a little box on a shelf and get on with his life. He became an emergency medical technician and by 1981 was qualified to do advanced life support. In 1992 he earned his paramedic certification and it was work he came to love. But then, in Dave's own words on his Darkhorse website, "Several years ago I began to wonder whatever happened to the rest of the guys I served with in Vietnam. I'm okay, but are they? So what initially started out as a search for my doorgunner and a few other people I flew with, has now turned into a unit database for us all, and to date, I have found, located, or at least accounted for almost 700 of us."

"I first met Dave in 1997 when he was manning a little booth at a Vietnam helicopter pilots' reunion," said Russ Bayerski, who for a decade now has helped Dave use the Internet and copies of old military orders to track down Darkhorse veterans and put them in contact with each other. "I was immediately struck by his dedication and concern for others. He has personally experienced the thrill of being reuniting with friends he served with in Vietnam, and he wants as many other vets as possible to have a chance to feel that same kind of joy, too. I'm quite a bit younger than Dave, and he's like an adopted father to me now. I just can't tell you how much he means to me personally, and to so many others."

In my own case, Dave found me a couple of summers ago and invited me to a unit reunion which was going to be held in Phoenix, Arizona. And thanks to all of Dave's hard work, I was reunited there with some very special old friends whom I hadn't seen in almost 40 years, including my ARP (aero rifle platoon) squad leader, Jim Gratton, whom I now talk to regularly on the telephone. So when Jim called me late last week, I just assumed it was going to be another fun conversation like we always have, but that was not to be.

"Have you heard the news?" Jim asked me, his voice sadder than usual.

"What news?"

"That Dave Fesmire has a pretty big tumor in him that goes from his liver to his heart and the doctors say there's really nothing they can do for him."

As I asked myself why bad things happen to good people, and then reminded myself of an important lesson I had learned in Vietnam -- that life is never fair or just -- Jim added, "Dave's definitely taking the news a lot better than all the rest of us, that's for sure."

"After we got over spending eight days in the hospital and the shock of the diagnosis," said Dave's wife, Karen, "Dave decided to do what he has always done -- get on with his life. He didn't want me waking up scared every morning, so we decided to make every day a celebration, and every meal a banquet. Dave has always had a wonderful sense of humor, and believe me, it hasn't gone anywhere. He's still laughing, talking to as many of his friends as his energy level will allow, and enjoying every single day. He has a remarkable support group, including his firefighter friends, his community friends, his Vietnam friends, and of course his family. And next Saturday, there's going to be a big celebration of his life we're calling "Fezzy Fest" and I'm sure he's going to love that. Some of his friends even came over to the house the other day and got all the spare motorcycle parts out of the garage and they're busy putting a Harley together for him because he could never seem to find the time to do it himself."

"Dave is one special human being," said Ken Stormer, who was also a helicopter crewchief in Vietnam. "He's one of those guys who never shirked a task and always did what had to be done. Add to that the fact that he's got this huge heart and can't turn anyone down for anything and you can see why we all love him. Plus he was smart enough to marry Karen, who is one super lady! The two of them have been giving up their vacations for years helping out Vietnam veterans like me and there's just not enough words for any of us to properly thank them."

"Dave and I have so much to be thankful for," said Karen, "beginning with Kindra, Katti, and Mikki, our three daughters, and Dannyelle, Jerry Lee, Johnny, and Jason, our four grandchildren. But as much as Dave has loved his family and his work and his community, he has always had a special place in his heart for the guys he served with in Vietnam. There's a very deep bond there, one that I think only they fully understand, and Dave has truly enjoyed bringing as many of them together again as he possibly could."

Next Saturday, I will be driving a few hours northwest of West Sacramento to a little town called Lucerne, where Dave and Karen now make their home, and where Dave has been a paramedic/firefighter for the Northshore Fire Protection District since 2001. I, along with some of the other Vietnam veterans whose lives Dave has touched over the years, will be attending "Fezzy Fest", which will not only celebrate Dave's life and accomplishments, but will also "roast" him in the process, and there's no doubt in any of our minds that Dave will be the most cheerful person at the event.

I will be driving to "Fezzy Fest" with Jim Gratton, the soldier I most admired while I was in Vietnam, and without Dave, I'm sure I would have never bumped into Jim again in this life, much less been able to become friends with him all over again. And I'm also sure at "Fezzy Fest" most of us will leave a lot of things unsaid, because that is too often the way old soldiers like to leave things. But since Karen has assured me that Dave will get around to reading this little column sooner or later, I just wanted him to know -- in writing -- that the gift he gave to me and so many others -- which is nothing less than closure to some of the most traumatic days of our lives -- is immeasurable, very deeply appreciated, and most important of all, proof-positive of a life incredibly well-lived.

Congratulations to Woodland native Dustin Pedroia for winning the American League Rookie of the Year Award. The Sacramento Bee's 2002 All-Metro Position Player of the Year, helped lead the Red Sox to the 2007 World Series title. The Woodland High alumni captured 24 of 28 first place votes beating out outfielder Delmon Young from Tampa Bay.

Pedroia, 24, who hit .317 with eight home runs and knocked in 50 RBIs in 139 games, became the first Sacramento area baseball player to win a major award since Steve Sax. Sax also a second baseman won the NL Rookie of the Year Award in 1982 with the Dodgers.

Dustin, who is listed at 5-foot-9 and 180 pounds, led off this year's World Series opener with a home run but voting was completed at the end of the regular season. The Red Sox organization hung in their with Pedroia who started the first month of the season hitting just .172 with no home runs and only two RBIs.

Pedroia, who always played as an underdog because of his size, was the Delta League MVP, batting .445 for Woodland High in 2001. He enrolled in Arizona State after graduation and continued his success batting .347, .404 and .393 in three seasons for the Sun Devils, earning All-American honors and two Pac-10 Conference Player of the Year awards. The Red Sox selected Pedroia in the second-round of the 2004 draft with their 65th pick.

Diamond Notes

The Sacramento River Cats and Oakland Athletics named Todd Steverson as the third manager in River Cats' history. Steverson replaces Tony DeFrancesco, who was named the Athletics' third base coach in October.

Steverson, who spent 2007 as manager of the Athletics' Double-A affiliate Midland RockHounds and the previous two seasons (2005-06) at the helm of the Single-A affiliate Stockton Ports, has a lifetime managerial record of 214-203. Steverson had a seven-year playing career that included major-league appearances with Detroit (1995) and San Diego (1996).

Kings Korner

The Kings (2-5) went 2-1 on their home stand last week and could have beat LeBron and the Cavs for a third win but lost to the Cavs on a last second missed shot by Kevin Martin. The good news for the Kings was the play of Beno Udrih and rookie center, Spencer Hawes.

Udrih, who is from Slovenia, was signed by the Kings to fill in for Mike Bibby, who will return to action in January. Beno was the 28th overall pick by San Antonio in the 2004 NBA draft and served as a backup to point guard Tony Parker.

He was traded in October by the Spurs to the Timberwolves for a draft pick and was immediately waived. The lefthander brings back old memories of a former Kings guard, Sarunas Marciulionis, who led the Kings to the playoffs in the 1995/96 season.

The Kings newly signed guard, Beno Udrich, looks like a ray of hope for the injury-depleted offense. Spencer Hawes made his pro debut playing 6 minutes and scoring two points on Sunday and 8 points in Utah while logging in 16 minutes.

The Kings will celebrate the return of Ron Artest, who has

Raider football squad makes playoffs

Gregory 'GT' Turner sets new rushing record for River City High School

Coach Watkins and the River City Raiders football team defeated the Dixon Rams 14 to 12 last Friday night. With that win, the Raiders played their way into the playoffs for the first time in 15 years.

Joey Brown's touchdown to Alex Maldonado and the 2 point conversion pass gave the Raider's the lead over the Rams with only 50 seconds remaining.

Gregory GT Turners interception sealed the victory for the Raiders. Turner set the single season rushing record for River City by gaining 1939 yards for the year. The Raider's will travel to Oakdale to play the Oakdale Mustangs in the first playoff appearance for the Raider's in a long time. West Sacramento's "River City Junior Raiders" youth football game had a great day on November 3.

The squad sent both a "midgets" (age 13-14) and a "junior midgets" (age 11-12) football team to Rio Linda. The junior midgets were playing to defend their Sacramento Youth Football (SYF) championship from 2006.

The older "midget" squad was also playing to win, but hadn't brought home an SYF championship in 21 years prior.

The junior midgets played first, prevailing in a hard-fought 12-8 victory over the Highlands Jr. Scots. The win resulted in a repeat of last year's SYF championship.

The midgets played next, meeting the Colfax Junior Falcons, also in a game played at Rio Linda High. Scoring seven touchdowns on 450

Ahead in local government

The West Sacramento City Council will meet tonight in public session at 1110 West Capitol Avenue.

Agenda items include a draft relocation plan for residents at 820 West Capitol Avenue; a funding application to the state's CDBG economic development over-the-counter program; amending the building code to reflect new state codes; and other items.

The West Sacramento Planning Commission will meet in open session at 6 p.m. on Thursday at city hall, 1110 West Capitol Avenue.

Agenda items include an application regarding adding to a wireless "monopole" at 917 Jefferson Blvd.; a public hearing on development plans along 6th Street north of E Street (Washington Square 6th and E); rezone and other issues for Riverside Centre (west of Stillwater Road); a request to build a chain link fence with slats and to plant shrubs near a drainage canal and Promenade Street/Ramos Drive; and other issues.

A meeting planned for the school board of the Washington Unified School District tomorrow has been canceled due to a lack of a quorum of board members. The next regular meeting of the board is planned for the evening of December 13, although WUSD may schedule a special meeting on a sooner date.

The city's Commission on Aging is scheduled to meet on Friday. An agenda was not available at press time.

SPORTS from p. 3

been sitting out his seven game suspension, on Wednesday in Minnesota (5 p.m.-CSN). The Kings will return to Arco for a short three game home stand starting on Friday night against New York followed by Detroit on Sunday and Phoenix on Tuesday.

NFL Week 11

It's official; the 49ers (2-7) are the worst team in the NFL! Yes, worst than the Raiders who lost their barner burner 17-6 to Da Bears. The Niners were shutout by Seattle 24-0 on the Monday night game. I can't find the words to describe the Niners offense except maybe embarrassing!

The Raiders (2-7) refused to let JaMarcus Russell play on Sunday even though Josh "McClown" barely threw for 100 yards in their home loss to Da Bears. This week the Raiders (+5) will travel to Minnesota (10 a.m-ch.13) while the 49ers (1:15 p.m-FOX) host the Rams (PK), who won their first game of the season scoring 37 points on the Saints, who beat up the Niners a couple of weeks ago 31-10.

Aztecs Picks

Aztec went 2-3 in week 10, winning his college pick but the dog stumbled again with his NFL selections including his 49ers (+11). This week Aztecs "College Lick of the Week" is Illinois (-13 ½) at home against Northwestern and in the Pro's the dawg is going with Chargers (+3) in Jacksonville and the Eagles (-10) over Miami while the Saints (-2) win in Texas. On Monday night the Broncos (-3) will handle Tennessee.

Korner Kicks

The Houston Dynamo will face the New England Devolution next Sunday in Washington D.C. for the Major League Soccer Championship. A year ago, Houston beat New England on penalty kicks. Just in case you're a 49ers fan and need to change the channel, you can catch the MLS Cup final on ABC or TeleFutura at 3 p.m.

Enjoy your day – see ya next week!

Donate a box of goodies to overseas troops: here's how

For the last couple of years, the Rotary Club of West Sacramento has led a campaign to collect shoe boxes full of items then sent them to our troops in Iraq — it's been an overwhelming success!

Once again, the Rotary Club, with assistance from the West Sacramento Chamber, is collecting shoe boxes full of items — and is asking for your help.

You can pick up a "shoebox" (Priority Mail Flat Rate box) at the Chamber office or any post office, fill it with goodies from the wish list (see below) and return it to the Chamber with $8.95 to cover the flat rate shipping. Drop them off at the Chamber office by December 4 and the Rotary Club will get them sent off!

A letter, small cans or plastic bottles Of exotic sauces to put on their plain noodles, home- made ccokies, quality gym socks, shower sandals, boxer-brief style 34 inch underwear, beef jerky, hard candy like Lifesavers, DVDs of the latest movies, batteries (AA & AAA), snacks, baby wipes, small bottles of lotion and shaving cream, quality disposable razors, dental floss, tooth brushes.

Meet with U.S. Rep Mike Thompson

Congressman Mike Thompson plans a "town hall meeting" in Woodland on November 20.

Residents of the 1st Congressional District, which includes West Sacramento, are invited to attend. The meeting will be held from 7-8 p.m. in the community room of Woodland Community College, 2300 E. Gibson Road. According to his staff, Thompson will brief the public on his legislative work and invite them to share their concerns.

For more information, call (530) 662-5272.

POLICE LOG

Oct. 30, 10 p.m.

A 15th Street business reported that two windows were hit by apparent BB gun shots, leaving small pieces of glass in a day care room.

Nov. 7, 8:02 p.m.

Officers conducted a "knock and talk" visit at an apartment on the 3200-block of West Capitol Avenue. They obtained consent to search the residence, and found five baggies of an off-white substance and two glass pipes. An incident report was taken, and the identities of two men and a woman in their 20s were noted.

Nov. 8, 11:41 a.m.

A Vermont Avenue man reported receiving a cell phone bill for a phone he doesn't own. He added that a girlfriend had used his name & social security number to buy items.

Nov. 8, 9:28 p.m.

A retailer on Riverpoint Court detained a suspected shoplifter. A security official reported watching the man go to the electronics department and select two CDs, then proceed to the baby aisle, remove the CDs from their packaging and hide them "on his person." The suspect then proceeded to the checkout aisle where he paid for other items, but not the CDs. He was turned over to police.

Nov. 9, 3:52 a.m.

A 28-year old Kinsington Street man reported meeting with someone on Ballpark Drive to purchase a cell phone. The suspect took $180 in cash and a "SIM card" from the victim. When the victim tried to flee, the suspect struck him with a vehicle, dragging him about 100 feet.

Nov. 9, 2:52 p.m.

A 36-year old Sycamore Street woman called a drug store and tried to get a prescription for 100 pain medication pills, using false information. She later tried the same at a supermarket pharmacy, attempting to get 120 pills. She was arrested.

Nov. 9, 3:07 p.m.

A "Lojack" vehicle theft system helped pinpoint the location of a stolen car. West Sacramento police stopped the car on the 800-block of West Capitol Avenue. In it were an 18-year old San Francisco man and a 35-year old Sacramento man. Also in it was a "large amount" of drugs. Both suspects were arrested.

Nov. 9, 4:15 p.m.

A Savannah Lane resident reported that someone was tapping her phone and using her electronic equipment without permission.

Nov. 9, 4:33 p.m.

A Sacramento woman reported that her pickup truck had been impounded by West Sacramento police and stored at a Soule Street towing yard. When she got it back, a radio had been stolen. Police obtained three latent fingerprints from the vehicle and obtained the victim's prints for elimination purposes.

Nov. 9, 11:02 p.m.

A cordless drill was found outside the doors to the police department lobby.

Nov. 10, 1:29 a.m.

Near the Harbor Boulevard freeway offramps, an officer saw a 44-year old Sacramento man hit a victim several times with a metal tire iron. The man was read his rights, and afterwards admitting striking the victim. The victim suffered lacerations and required medical attention.

Nov. 10, 2:54 p.m.

An officer contacted a 30-year old West Capitol man during a domestic dispute on 4th Street. The man had "defensive" bite wounds. The victim reported that he had dragged her by the hair, and she bit him to avoid being struck. The officer believed the man to be the primary aggressor, and arrested him.

Helping the Troops Over the Holidays

Here are two ideas you can use immediately to help the troops.

1) Operation Homefront has received the highest possible rating — four stars — from a leading charity evaluator. What this means to us is that we can trust where our donation dollars go: Fully 82 percent of each dollar goes into programs, not into administration costs or advertising.

Operation Homefront provides emergency assistance to the troops, families when the troops are away and wounded warriors when they come home. That assistance is wide ranging: computers for families to stay in touch, financial help in emergencies, vehicle donations and repair, holiday baskets to families and the troops, physical labor to help with moving, and more. Thus far, Operation Homefront has provided more than $5 million to military families.

To volunteer or to donate, check the Web site www.operationhomefront.net, or call 1-800-722-6098.

2) Operation Gratitude, another very worthy charity, is in the middle of its holiday season.

At this point it has sent more than 260,000 packages to troops in hostile areas. This holiday season, it hopes to top the 300,000 mark. While items in the packages are donated, the postage and packaging are not. It costs nearly $10 to mail each one. And these aren't just ordinary packages. Each one is individually addressed to the recipient and contains two letters or cards, as well as quality products. The recipient of the 250,000th package received the keys to a brand-new SUV.

If you'd like to donate to help with shipping costs, send checks to Operation Gratitude, 16444 Refugio Road, Encino, CA 91436. Check the Web site Wish List for items it needs to go in the packages this holiday season. (www.opgratitude.com)

And if you wonder whether the packages are appreciated, check the Web site. Look at the photos and read the responses.

Now here's a tip! by Jo Ann Derson

• "Since it's the season to be planting bulbs for spring flowers, I have this unique method for knowing exactly where I've planted — no stakes needed. Spray the spot with orange fluorescent spray paint (like the highway workers and plumbers use). It doesn't wash away in wet weather and will keep you from digging there or planting something on top in the spring." — W.V.R. in Oregon

• "We have a cookie-making party every year, and we serve a nice lunch before launching into the cookies. This year, we decided to be very festive and used cookie cutters for napkin rings. They were raved about!" — B.L. in New Jersey

• Here's a wonderful tip received via e-mail: If you have a panic button for your car alarm, keep your keys by the bedside. If you experience a problem during the night, trip the panic alarm. Let your trusted neighbors know about your intention, and they will be able to assist you.

• We've received much mail regarding the reuse of plastic water bottles. Readers who are for it cite the convenience and the environmental impact when plastic is not recycled or reused. Readers who are against it comment on the risk of bacteria buildup. The bottom line is this: Treat a bottle as you would any other cup; wash between uses with hot, soapy water, and allow the bottle to air-dry. Be sure to recycle when finished.

• "After sprucing up the house for visitors this season, I have found a great second use for a coffee-can lid. Use it to catch paint drips when you are painting a ceiling or the underside of anything. Just cut a slit in the lid and slip it over the brush handle. That way, the paint drips on the saucer, and saves you a sleeve." — O.J. in North Carolina

Car Care Corner

Choosing A Repair Shop

(NAPS)—Today's vehicles are among the best built, but without routine care and maintenance they will age prematurely and rack up unnecessary repair bills. Here are some tips on finding a good repair establishment from the pros at the nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE):

• Start shopping for a repair facility before you need one.

• Ask your friends and associates for their recommendations; consult local consumer groups.

• Look for a neat, orderly facility with modern equipment and a courteous staff willing to answer your questions.

• Look for policies regarding estimated repair costs, diagnostic fees, guarantees, acceptable methods of payment, etc.

• Ask if the repair facility specializes or if it usually handles your type of repair work.

• Look for signs of professionalism in the customer service area, such as community or customer service awards.

• Look for evidence of qualified technicians: trade school diplomas, certificates of advanced courses and ASE certification.

ASE was founded to improve the quality of automotive service and repair through the voluntary testing and certification of automotive technicians. ASE-certified technicians wear blue and white ASE shoulder insignia; their employers often display the blue and white ASE sign. Visit www.ase.com for more car care tips.

ORDINANCE 07-20
A ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WEST SACRAMENTO AMENDING THE WEST SACRAMENTO ZONING MAP IN THE NORTHWEST VILLAGE OF SOUTHPORT

The City Council of the City of West Sacramento does ordain as follows:

Section 1. Purpose and Authority. The purpose of this Ordinance is to amend the West Sacramento Zoning Map from 3.8 acres RP/PD-37 (Recreation Park/Planned Development 37) to 3.8 acres C-1/PD-37 (Neighborhood Commercial/ Planned Development 37) as depicted as Property A on attached Exhibit A for property located on a 3.8-acre site north and east of Lake Washington Boulevard, west of Jefferson Boulevard, and south of the Barge Canal (portions of APN 45-030-09; 10) and to amend the West Sacramento Zoning Map from 3.8 acres C-1/PD-37 (Neighborhood Commercial/ Planned Development 37) to 3.8 acres BP/PD-37 (Business Park/Planned Development 37) as depicted as Property B on attached Exhibit A for property located on a 3.8 acre site south of Southport Parkway and west of the Lake Washington remnant (a portion of APN 45-030-05). This Ordinance is authorized pursuant to Government Code Section 65864 through 65869.5 and Resolution No. 88-111 of the City of West Sacramento.

Section 2. Severability. If any provision or section of this Ordinance is determined to be unenforceable, invalid or unlawful, such determination shall not affect the enforceability of the remaining provisions of the Ordinance.

Section 3. Effective Date and Publication. This Ordinance shall take effect thirty (30) days after its adoption, and pursuant to Resolution 99-46, was published in summary format prior to adoption and a summary shall be published within fifteen (15) days after adoption in a paper of general circulation published and circulated within the City of West Sacramento.

Joe Smith was arrested yesterday on complaint of J. Grace, foreman for the Sacramento Northern in West Sacramento. It is reported that Max P. Fisher classes him as an exconvict. His trial was held this morning too late to publish in this issue of the Independent.

The Third street crossing at the end of the bridge has been noticed lately to be neglected considerably. Yesterday the Independent was informed that the Southern Pacific Co. has refuesd to take any further care of this crossing, having turned it over to the Board of Supervisors of Yolo County. This is very important crossing and very dangerous for vehicles and pedestrians. It is too narrow and too close to the railroad tracks and these sharp right angle turns has been the cause of many wrecks. Skidding automobiles tear away the gravel soon after it is placed, with the result that chuckholes soon make their appearance. That is the manner in which the crossing was found yesterday and with further neglect it will not improve any. During several years past watchmen at the end of the bridge have taken care of these chuckholes, if only to keep themselves warm. This crossing should not be neglected no matter who does the work.

BRYTE STAR CLUB WILL DANCE AT RIVERBANK SATURDAY

To-morrow evening in the public school building at Riverbank the Bryte Star Club will give a social dance to its friends and neighbors.

The club is made up of young ladies who love to have a good time and above all things who love to dance.

"Dance" is the middle name of mostly all these girls. Their first name is "Work," but after that comes "Dance."

They promise to have good music, good eats, good seats and a general good time.

Even the boys are coming from Sacramento to help them out and to show their hearts are in the right place.

The committee is composed of Misses Violet Johnson, Mary Traversi, Mary Anater, Blanche Roach and Olga Machado.

P. T. A. DANCE DEC. 2ND TO RAISE CHRISTMAS TREE FUNDS

At a meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association held yesterday afternoon in the public school building it was decided that a great dance will be given in the Town Hall on the evening of December 2d to raise funds for a Christmas tree celebration on or about Dec. 23d.

Many of the parents present declared there were many children in the town who would have no other christmas tree except the public tree usually given in the Town Hall.

For these poor children the association will try to pave the way for a little enjoyment and the only known method of raising funds for that purpose is through a public dance or entertainment.

Final decision of the question was made after some discussion so that the dance will be given on Dec. 2d.

At various times the Parent-Teachers Association has busied itself in many worthy projects. Of all the other this is one of the most worthy because nobody refuses to help, lend a little cheer for the poor children whose parents cannot afford to treat them to a regular Santa Claus festival.

A strong committee of the association has taken hold of the question to make a big success of it.

Newest use of jackass is that of trading it for chickens.

First thing we know men will be trading their wives for a gallon or two of the precious commodity.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

It wasn't enough to soft-pedal K-8

West Sacramento voters last week had their say on "Measure S," a $59 million bond measure to upgrade school facilities and pay for the expansion of local elementary schools to include middle school grades. There wasn't much else on the ballot for voters in this area.

The only comparable ballot measures in Yolo County were in Davis. One of those measures was a proposal to extend and increase a parcel tax for schools, costing $200 per parcel over the next four years. Interestingly, the parcel tax was not meant to fund facilities – like "Measure S" was – but was earmarked to pay for educational programs. Money from the tax would go to reading and math programs, class size reduction (extra teachers) and the like. That ballot measure needed a two-thirds vote. It passed, with 73 percent approval.

The other Davis measure asked voters to increase another parcel tax – this one for libraries. The measure proposed raising parcel taxes from $42 per year to $88 per year to pay for more library services. This measure, too, required a two-thirds vote. It passed, with 73 percent approval.

Here in West Sacramento, the school bond measure asked voters to pay about $33 per year for every hundred thousand dollars of assessed property value. The owner of a home assessed at $300,000, for example, would be taxed at about $100 per year. The measure only needed 55 percent approval. Supporters backed it with a campaign funded by more than $100,000. Opponents spent little. But the measure only attracted a little more than 50 percent voter approval.

You can call that a "spanking."

There should be and will be a lot of discussion about why Measure S failed. But for the moment, consider one thing:

A main reason Measure S was created was to pay for the conversion of local elementary schools from "kindergarten through sixth grade" to "kindergarten through eighth grade," or "K-8," schools. But if you look at both the campaign material you received from "Yes on Measure S" and the supporting material you got from the school district, you will be hard-pressed to figure that out.

The "K-8" issue is played down. A glossy brochure from the campaign sidestepped the issue of expanding the elementary school campuses and focused on eliminating the middle school, promising the ballot measure would "(allow kids) to attend smaller schools that are closer to their homes."

A quasi-campaign piece from the district, dressed as an application to join the new bond's oversight committee, likewise didn't directly mention K-8 schools. That brochure only mentioned the proposed "conversion of schools to safe, neighborhood schools that have enhanced technology and classroom space to provide a powerful learning environment where students, parents and teachers will develop longer-term positive relationships."

Why be so coy about K-8s?

The reason, the News-Ledger has learned, is that Washington Unified School District and the pro-bond campaign learned months ago – through market research – that local voters wouldn't approve a school bond to pay for a large plan expanding local K-6 schools to K-8 schools. So they soft-pedaled "K-8" in their campaign material.

The K-8 question is a very important consideration as WUSD regroups and tries to come up with a new solution. West Sacramento is traditionally reluctant to approve a school bond; local voters said "no" to two different bonds to build a new high school before they finally approved one calling for a smaller amount of cash. On top of that, local voters evidently don't want to pay extra taxes to change elementary schools district-wide from K-6 to K-8 campuses. They told market researchers this many weeks ago -- then drove the point home more firmly last Tuesday.

Letters to the Editor

Do it again, differently

Redo the bond issue, but do it the right way this time. Don't send us the same bond issue in the Spring hoping for different results, you won't get them.

In the 1990s, the WUSD board presented a bond issue to the voters for a new high school. The bond issue was rejected and instead of making the necessary changes they presented the same, identical, not one word different, bond issue to the voters and were rejected again.

In the 1990s, the Sac City USD did the same thing. Two bond issues, two losses and the two issues were identical. They thought the voters were stupid and would not notice that their two bond issues were the identical to the last letter with just a different name.

The School Board and the Administration must talk to the voters and find out why the bond was rejected. Don't talk to the people that always vote yes or always vote no on bond issues. These people will not change their votes and they have a certain feeling about bond issues that will not change. Instead talk to the people that look at each bond issue and make a decision on the merits of each one. These are the swing voters, and many voted against this issue this time.

Find out from the voters what they will support and what they will not support. Listen to the voters concerns. Look at the size of the bond issue and the cost to the tax payers. When you have had the chance to listen, think, listen some more and really think about it I think you will find what changes you need to make in order to get this bond passed. I believe you, the Board and Administration, can pare down the extra money, find out the communities priorities and get your next, smaller bond issue passed.

The voters are not stupid and don't deserve to be treated that way. They will support the right bond issues as demonstrated by the 79% vote we got less than 10 years ago. Do it right or don't do it.

Teachers enjoy volunteering

It's rare to find someone who hasn't had at least one teacher who has made an immeasurable impact on his or her life. For the best teachers, the reward isn't the salary but the gratification of opening young minds to the world around them, to providing them with the life skills they need to succeed.

One would think that after a lifetime of such endeavors, teachers would enjoy their well-earned retirement pursuing their own interests and hobbies. But apparently the lifelong habit of giving doesn't stop after the career ends. Retired teachers are among our most active volunteers, donating their time and effort for the many causes that stitch our society together in a community.

California Retired Teachers Association recently reported that volunteer hours reported by just 11 percent of its members this past year totaled 2.4 million hours. Locally, 44 percent of our members accounted for 43,328 volunteer hours with many more hours being unreported. What an incredible difference these retirees have made in our communities. November 4-10 was the ninth California Retired Teachers Week. This time was set aside to recognize them for their extraordinary volunteer efforts.

Apparently, these retired teachers still have some lessons left for all of us.

"Dan in Real Life"

Running time: 95 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

"Dan in Real Life" is a nice movie about nice people. It's funny, but not Ha-Ha funny, or gross, or mean, or vulgar, or quirky in the way that most indie comedies feel they need to be these days. It's just nicely funny. If funny were an ice cream, this movie would be a flavor that's more vanilla than vanilla. It would taste like Connecticut.

"Dan in Real Life" is also rife with cliches. Don't believe me? Allow me to elucidate: Steve Carell stars as the titular Dan, a widower father of three girls and a failed novelist who now writes an advice column. That description alone should speak volumes.

Widower: You know that by the end of the film, he'll be married and the girls will have a Mommy again.

Three girls: You won't remember their names, because they aren't so much individuals as they are symbols for the Important Life Lessons Dan Must Learn.

Yeah, it's one of THOSE movies.

But before you wrap your lips around the business end of Mr. Twelve-Gauge, there is one saving grace in this film, and that's Juliette Binoche. She plays Marie, a woman Dan meets in a bookstore while he and his girls are at a weekend family reunion in Rhode Island. It's love at first sight, but there's one hitch: She's the new girlfriend of Dan's brother.

Oh fuss and bother! However shall Daniel reconcile this situation in a Nice Way?

Steve Carell, Juliette Binoche

Don't worry. He will. But you already know that he gets the girl, and that his brother will be angry — but not too angry and for not too long. Because these are nice people in a nice movie.

"Dan in Real Life" is just another achingly familiar, cookie-cutter movie filled with non-threatening, one-dimensional characters and treacly homilies. It's the Forrest Gump of romantic comedies.

Q. I absolutely adore Cate Blanchett and found her mesmerizing in "Elizabeth: The Golden Age." What's up next for her? — A Reader, via e-mail

A. The always-busy Aussie actress will be seen next in "Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull" and then in "The Curious Case of Benjamin Button." She also will be lending her voice (along with George Clooney and Bill Murray) to Wes Anderson's animated movie called "The Fantastic Mr. Fox." And it's a good thing the latter role requires only Ms. Blanchett's voice — the actress recently announced that her family, as well as her belly, will be expanding, as she and husband Andrew Upton will be welcoming a new babycome April. Baby Blanchett will be joining brothers Dashiell John and Roman Robert.

Q. I've noticed that "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition" has a hunky new carpenter/designer. Who is he, and why does his face ring a bell with me? — Julie T., Erie, Pa.

A. Former model and actor Rib Hillis ("Rib" is his childhood nickname; his given name is Robert) previously played Dr. Jake Marshak on "Port Charles" and "General Hospital," as well as having guest spots on "Baywatch," "Angel," "CSI" and "Ugly Betty." He began his career in front of the camera as a model for Versace and Armani, to name a few. Rib is really enjoying his current gig as a designer for the popular home-makeover show. He told me, "This is the hardest work I've ever done, but definitely the most satisfying."

Q. I was so shocked that "Cheetah Girl" Sabrina Bryan was voted off "Dancing With the Stars"! What do you make of it? I'll still watch the show, but I know a lot of people who are mad about it and plan to boycott it. — Hattie G., via e-mail

A. Sabrina's ousting certainly was a shock and quite unexpected. I spoke with John O'Hurley (Season One runner-up, and winner of the Grudge Match) about it, and he was very surprised. "I was so blown away by what happened," he told me. He thought she was going to take home the first-place trophy, as did many viewers.

I, however, am not upset to see her go. Now, before you all get mad at me, let me explain: This show is for celebrities who are famous for doing things other than dancing. All contestants are supposed to be amateurs. Sabrina is not. She is a professional dancer as well as choreographer. She should not have been chosen to compete in the first place. I feel that now the playing field is even, and a true amateur can now be chosen as the best celebrity dancer.

Q. Why do washed-up rock stars (Brett Michaels, Gene Simmons, Ozzy Osbourne, et al.) keep getting their own cable TV shows? — A Reader

A. The current appetite for nostalgia seems to be insatiable, so as long as we keep watching, they'll keep making. Plus, we're all suckers for a good train wreck!

The Uncommon Reader
By Alan Bennett
($15, Farrar, Straus and Giroux)
Reviewed by Cindy Elavsky

Noted playwright Alan Bennett ("The History Boys") has given us his latest work of prose: the short, elegant and brilliant novella "The Uncommon Reader." In "Reader," Bennett takes us behind the scenes as the Queen of England, much to the dismay of her court and her countrymen, discovers her love of books.

It all begins when the Queen is walking with her corgis on palace grounds and her dogs run up ahead. She follows her beloved pets, only to see that they have discovered a bookmobile. She feels obliged to take a look inside, and again, out of obligation, decides to borrow a book. This single action propels the Queen into a world of letters she had never experienced before.

As her appetite for reading becomes more and more voracious, her aides become more concerned. But nothing can prepare them for the revelation that she might be considering becoming a writer herself.

One of the wonderful things about this novella is that readers get a first-hand look at the propriety and protocol of the workings of Buckingham Palace. From the aides and attendants who believe they are working in the best interests of Queen and country by discouraging her new hobby, to the Queen's personal aide, who nourishes and fosters her newfound love of books, Bennett has brought to life an engaging and joyous work of fiction that is impossible to put down.

Clocking in at a mere 128 pages, "The Uncommon Reader" can be read in one sitting, and in my opinion, should be. With visions of Helen Mirren as Queen Elizabeth still fresh in my mind from her Academy Award-winning performance in "The Queen," I was enthralled in Bennett's story from the get-go, and would recommend it to any and all book lovers.

1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
6 small hamburger buns

In a large skillet sprayed with butter-flavored cooking spray, brown meat and onion. Stir in mushroom soup, sour cream, parsley flakes and nutmeg. Lower heat and simmer for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. For each sandwich, spoon about 1/2 cup meat mixture between a hamburger bun. Serves 6.

Potato and Parsnip Latkes

To spice up the Hanukkah menu, we've added lightly nutty parsnips to the traditional latke recipe.

1 3/4 pounds potatoes
1 1/2 pounds parsnips
2 green onions
1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoons black pepper
2 large eggs
Salad oil

1. Peel and finely shred potatoes. With hands, squeeze out as much liquid as possible; place potatoes in medium bowl. Peel and finely shred parsnips into bowl with potatoes. Finely chop green onions; add to potato mixture.

2. Stir flour, salt, pepper and eggs into potato mixture.

3. Heat 2 teaspoons salad oil in nonstick 12-inch skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Drop latke mixture by 1/4 cups into hot skillet, cooking 4 at a time. With pancake turner, flatten each latke to a 3 1/2-inch round. Cook latkes for about 5 minutes until underside is golden. With pancake turner, turn latkes and cook another 5 minutes until second side is golden. Remove latkes to wire rack.

4. Repeat with remaining potato mixture, using 2 teaspoons hot salad oil per batch of latkes.

5. Keep latkes warm or reheat just before serving. To reheat, place rack on cookie sheet and heat in 375 F oven until hot, about 10 minutes. Makes 12 latkes.

Fave Foods OF THE FAMOUS

Neurosonic

You know those TV shows where they attempt to "discover" the next hot band? Forget about them! Bodog Music recording artists Neurosonic is smokin' hot right now, having emerged from the Vancouver rock scene in early 2006 with a unique blend of fierce onstage vigor, brutally honest lyrics and killer choruses. Joining founder Jason Darr are Troy Healy, Jacen Ekstrom and Shane Smith. The band's hit, "So Many People," off its debut album, "Drama Queen," can be seen on MTV.com and Mania TV. Neurosonic recently wrapped up a huge European tour and are back on the road in the U.S. and Canada. For more info on U.S. tour dates: www.myspace.com/neurosonic or www.neurosonic.ca

Darr (pictured) speaks for the band:

When its 4 a.m. and the band is on the road and hungry, is it time for breakfast or a late dinner?

"At that time, it's truck stop or convenience-store food, unfortunately. It's always nice to have something that you can throw in the microwave, like pasta or instant Chinese food. It's never that good, but it makes the hunger go away. We travel with our own BBQ, so we always prefer to cook if we can. Steak, corn on the cob, chicken wings — you name it!"

Which band member has a bizarre or quirky eating habit?

"I am a freak. I like my hamburgers with nothing on them. I have the meat well-done. Other than McDonald's, my favorite food is cereal! I eat almost no vegetables, and I am a sugar junkie. Shane is a garbage pail who will eat anything. The only requirement is that it have tons of hot sauce on it. So I guess we are the extreme opposites of weirdness."

Which foods and drinks represent the band's music?

"We are most certainly peanut butter sandwiches. But with mayo and pepper. There is nothing right about this band, which makes us perfect. Like 100-year-old Scotch whisky."

Backstage treats include:

"We love Red Bull before the show. Afterward, the best stuff is always fresh food. After touring Europe for weeks and weeks, we have all come to appreciate freshness. Nothing in Europe is fresh except bread. Nothing is hot or cold. It's just kind of in the middle. Think of milk that isn't refrigerated. That's how our food experiences have been in Europe."

You just wrapped up The Family Values Tour in Europe with Korn and Evanesence. How was it enjoying meals with them?

"The most amazing thing is not what you're eating, but who you're eating with. Discussing desserts with Fieldy, the bassist and founding member of Korn, or just chewing some food and talking to the people we idolize is a special experience. I honestly can't even remember what the food was like. Just who I was dining with. My heroes."

ROAD TRIP MONTREAL PEPPERED STEAK

1/2 cup olive oil
1/4 cup low-sodium soy sauce
4 teaspoons McCormick Grill Mates Montreal Steak Seasoning Pepper to taste
2 pounds boneless beef sirloin or New York strip steaks (Jason prefers New York strips)

Mix oil, soy sauce, steak seasoning and pepper in small bowl. Place steak in large sealable plastic bag or a glass dish. Add marinade, and turn and shake to coat well. Refrigerate 30 minutes or longer for extra flavor. Remove steak from marinade. Discard any remaining marinade. Grill over medium-high heat 6 to 8 minutes per side or until desired doneness. Serve with fresh roasted corn. Serves 8.

NOTICE TO ADOPT A NEGATIVE DECLARATION

A Negative Declaration has been prepared for the Harsch Investment Properties General Plan Amendment, Rezone and Amendment to the Riverside Centre Development Agreement for approximately 12.78 acres located in Riverside Centre. The General Plan amendment would amend the General Plan Land Use Diagram from Office to Business Park and rezone the subject properties from Professional Office to Business Park. This Negative Declaration has been prepared to address the potential environmental impacts of this project. The Negative Declaration concludes that the proposed project would not have any adverse impacts on the environment.

Copies of the Negative Declaration are on file in the office of the West Sacramento Public Works and Community Development Department at 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA 95691 (telephone: 916/617-4645).

Any affected or interested parties may appear at the December 12, 2007, City Council meeting and comment on the Negative Declaration and/or the proposed project.

The West Sacramento City Council will consider adoption of the Negative Declaration on December 12, 2007, in the City Council chambers located at 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA, 95691 at 7:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

Local Scene

Water access

A new barge canal access area opens officially today, Nov. 7, at 3:30 p.m. The access area is located west of Jefferson Blvd. and just south of the canal. Mayor Christopher Cabaldon and Yolo Supervisor Mike McGowan have been asked to speak at the dedication ceremony. The access area allows pedestrians and people carrying small boats to reach the waterfront, which includes benches and an off-road biking trail.

Rib dinner, dance

The West Sacramento Moose Family Center invites members & guests to a prime rib dinner & dance on Dec. 8 at 7 p.m., for $13.50 per person for dinner/dance ($5 cover for dance only), at 3240 Jefferson Blvd. RSVP by Dec. 2 to Gene EVenson, 371-7849; or Rich Huber, 997-4688. Country & western dance to follow dinner.

Tower Bridge closed

Tower Bridge has closed to all vehicle, pedestrian and bicycle traffic and will remain closed through November 20 as sidewalks are widened on the bridge's "lift" portion. Motorists are asked to instead use the Pioneer Bridge (US 50) or I Street Bridge. Pedestrians and bicyclists may use the I Street Bridge. During the closure, the center span will be locked in the "raised" position. For more project information, visit www.sactowerbridge.org.

Used cooking oil?

Pouring your used cooking oil down the drain can cause sewer systems to back up, warns the City of West Sacramento. You can recycle that used cooking oil leftover from holiday cooking, from Nov. 13 to Jan. 11, at the public works department, 1951 South River Road, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Bring the oil in a sturdy container. No charge for city residents; bring photo I.D. The service will also be available Sat., Dec. 1, from 9 a.m. to noon. For more information, call 617-4850.

Thanksgiving

First Southern Baptist Church promises enough food to feed about 100 people who need a place to go for the holiday. On Thursday, Nov. 22, the church will offer a free meal from noon to 1:30 p.m at 2124 Michigan Blvd. For information, call 371-2111.

Seniors' club

Golden Years Club of West Sacramento will have a catered Thanksgiving dinner at the VFW Hall, 905 Drever St., at 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 20. $5 for members and $10 for guests. Entertainment will follow. For tickets, call 371-8749 or 371-4268.

Interfaith holiday

All are invited to the annual West Sacramento Interfaith Thanksgiving Service at 7 p.m. on Wed., Nov. 14, at Holy Cross Catholic School at Anna and Todhunter streets. Learn about other faith traditions while you give thanks. Call 798-8724 for information.

Whale of a story

A "Good Day Sacramento" TV anchor has written a children's book about the two whales that went astray into the Delta and the Port of Sacramento in May. "Delta & Dawn: Mother & Baby Whale's Journey," has been penned by Stefanie Cruz, who took her own kids to try to see the whales. Planned book signings include 11 a.m. on Nov. 17 at the Avid Reader at 1600 Broadway in Sacramento, and 4 p.m. on Dec. 2 at the Avid Reader at 617 Second Street in Davis.

GIS Day

The NorCal Urban Regional Information Systems Association will celebrate GIS (Geographic Information System) technology from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Nov. 14 at the galleria in West Sacramento city hall, 1110 West Capitol Avenue. A GIS is a computer-based mapping tool that serves users by combining features like streets, buildings, rivers and terrain, and the technology has daily widespread applications across many fields. For more information, visit www.gisday.com.

Old woodstove?

A $250 rebate is still available to anyone replacing a non-certified woodburning stove with an EPA-certified woodstove or with a stove running on gas, propane or pellets. A limited number of rebates are available on a first-come, first-serve basis within the Yolo-Solano Air Quality Management District. Visit www.ysaqmd.org or call (800) 287-3650 or (530) 757-3650. The program runs through Dec. 31.

Yard sale

Our Lady of Grace School will hold a yard sale from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sat., Dec. 8, at the school auditorium, 1990 Linden Road (east of the Nugget center). You're invited to donate your unused stuff (in good, sellable condition). Donations may be dropped off at the school on Dec. 6-7 from 3-7 p.m. Call Ellie at 216-5252 or Danny at 995-5862 for more information. The sale's proceeds will help send eighth graders on a field trip to Washington, D.C.

Children's books

Turner library plans a reception featuring new children's books from 4-7 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 15. Visit the branch from 4-7 p.m. Refreshments will be served. The library is located at 1212 Merkley Avenue. Sponsored by the West Sacramento Friends of the Library. For information, call 375-6465.

Teens wanted

Classes begin from 4-6 p.m. on Wed., Nov. 14, for all teens interested in helping to make the first outdoor mural project of the "Public Art and Historical Markers" committee of "Project Pride," sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Adult volunteers are also needed. Leave a message at the Collings Teen Center, 375-0681. For more information on Project Pride, call the chamber at 371-7042.

Parents & kids

"Mother Goose on the Loose" is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. on Saturday mornings at the Turner Branch Library, 1212 Merkley Avenue, and promises stories and other interactive activities for children up to 36 months and their parents and caregivers. You and your small child are invited.

Spare a coat?

News 10 is bringing back its "Coats for Kids" program, asking you to donate coats for cleaning (if needed) by Swanson'ts Cleaners and then distribution to needy kids before winter. Visit news10.net for information on drop-off sites, and to learn how to make a cash donation instead. For other information, call the coat hotline at (916) 321-3362.

Harvest Dinner

A "harvest dinner" will be provided by Hand Fisher Properties at the West Sacramento Senior Center, 664 Cummins Way, on Nov. 16 from 4:30-6 p.m. To reserve a space, call Leann Brown at 373-5819.

How to get there

'You've got places to go. . . how do you want to get there?' asks the Sacramento Area Council of Governments, or SACOG. The organization helps make decisions on regional transportation plans including roads, bike trails and mass transit. You're invited to comment on the "Metropolitan Transportation Plan and environmental impact report. The plan will allocate about $42 towards the region's transportation system. Visit www.sacog.org before Dec. 20, or call (916) 321-9000 for more information. A public hearing is scheduled for 6 p.m. on Nov. 29 at 1415 L St., Suite 300 in Sacramento.

Teen center

A "Community Lights Celebration Dinner" is planned to help "build a bridge to a brighter future," at the Collings Teen Center, 1541 Merkley Avenue, with doors opening at 5:45 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 16. $12 per person. Tickets may be purchased at the center. For information, call 375-0681.

Building code changes

A new building code takes effect January 1 in California. Architects, engineers, designers, contractors and others who work with the code are invited to training sessions at the Woodland Community & Senior Center this month. For more information, call (530) 666-8775.

Toy 'library'

Did you know West Sacramento has a "toy library," where families can check out up to five toys at a time for two weeks? A $10 annual fee makes you a member. The library is opened weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the first floor of city hall, 1110 West Capitol Avenue. Contact Christine Prater at 617-4620 for information. The toy library also accepts your donated gently-used toys or your monetary contribution (tax deductible).

Building inspection

Yolo County has redesigned its website for information pertaining to county building inspections. Visit www.yolocounty.org/org/PPW/building/building.htm if you are a homeowner, business owner, architect, engineer or other person with an interest in inspections. For more information, you may also call chief building official Lonell Butler, (530) 666-8803.

Youth karate

Youth karate is among the classes sponsored by the West Sacramento parks & community services department. The class meets Tuesdays from 6-7:30 p.m. at the civic center. $30 for early-birds or $40 regular fee. Call 373-5819 for information.

Polynesian Dance

Learn traditional steps of Polynesian dance, at the 7-8 p.m. Thursday evening classes continuing at the Alyce Norman Elementary School cafeteria (1200 Anna Street). Call (916) 708-7347 or email leannb@cityofwestsacramento.org.

Holiday decor

The Friends of Meals on Wheels plan 'Dickens in the Valley,' a tour of holiday-decorated homes, on Sat., Dec. 1, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The tour will feature at least six beautiful Woodland homes dressed in holiday splendor – including the famed Gable Mansion. $25/person, or $20/person for a group of 12 or more. Shuttle service offered between homes. Complimentary coffee & treats. Proceeds support the program that brings food to local seniors. For information, call (530) 662-7035.

Monte Carlo Night

A 'Monte Carlo Night' to benefit local youth football programs is scheduled for 7 p.m. to midnight on Nov. 16 at the VFW Hall, 905 Drever Street. $25 donation includes gaming chips and an Italian dinner. Scheduled are 'Texas Hold 'em,' blackjack, craps, and a DJ. Prize donations are welcome. Call Andy at 214-4726.

CORRECTION:

In the News-Ledger's October 31 edition was a paid political ad urging voters to 'Vote No on Measure S.'

The ad contained a list of 'Vote No' supporters. The News-Ledger accidentally left out the name of one supporter, Bonnie Belli.

We regret the omission.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Those who keep track of such things claim that since the Mad Tea Party ride opened at Disneyland in 1955, 115 million people have ridden it. I wonder how many of them managed to keep their lunches down.

• It was Founding Father Benjamin Franklin who made the following sage observation: "There is no kind of dishonesty into which otherwise good people more easily and frequently fall than that of defrauding the government."

• It's not easy being a lefty. Statistics show that 2,500 left-handed people are killed every year because they used products intended for righties.

• While at a Turkish bath in San Francisco once, Samuel Clemens — better known to us as Mark Twain — got involved in a chat with a local fireman. This may not seem at all interesting until you learn the name of that long-ago firefighter: Tom Sawyer. The author liked the name so much that today, all American schoolkids know it.

• You might already know that actor Mel Gibson grew up in Australia, but you might not know how he ended up there. He was actually born in New York, where he lived with his parents. The Vietnam War was going on, though, and his parents were afraid Mel would be drafted. After winning on "Jeopardy," they used the money to move to Australia.

• Of all the stamps that have been used by the U.S. Postal Service, more have featured George Washington than any other person; so far there have been 305 with the likeness of the nation's first president.

• When George Washington made his famous crossing of the Delaware River, silence was very important to his strategy, so the oars had to be muffled so they wouldn't squeak. However, materials were scarce. The solution: They used women's underwear to keep the oars quiet.

• The harmonica and the accordion were invented by the same person.

• In ancient Egypt, parents quieted their children by feeding them an extract from poppies — the same plant from which opium is derived.

• If you're a cat lover, I'm not sure if you'd be more or less likely to agree with the following quote from Doug Larson: "The cat could very well be man's best friend, but would never stoop to admitting it."

• Before he became famous, actor Jack Nicholson ran errands at MGM Studios.

• It was 19th-century French economist Frederic Bastiat who made the following observation: "Government is the great fiction, through which everybody endeavors to live at the expense of everybody else."

• Plastic wrap is a staple of the American kitchen — in fact, you probably have a roll or two stashed in a drawer or cupboard right now. But did you know that in the U.S., we use enough of the stuff every year to cover the entire state of Texas?

• Demographers claim that in Italy, one-third of all men over the age of 30 live with their parents.

• If you're like the average human being, you have 9,000 taste buds.

• You may not be surprised to learn that the word "gangrene," which indicates the death of the body's soft tissues due to lack of blood flow, comes from a Greek word meaning "to gnaw."

• It was Casey Stengel, famed baseball player and manager from the 1910s through the 1960s, who made the following observation about his career: "The key to being a good manager is keeping the people who hate me away from those who are still undecided."

• The world record for skipping stones is 40 skips with one toss.

• You have, of course, heard of Amelia Earhart, the record-setting aviatrix who fired the world's imagination in the early decades of the past century. You may not have realized, however, that her original ambition was to be a doctor. She was a medical student when she went to an air show in California, where she decided to become a pilot. Her daredevil career ended on July 2, 1937, when the plane she was flying in an attempt to circumnavigate the globe disappeared over the central Pacific Ocean. Earhart wasn't officially declared dead, though, until Jan. 5, 1939.

• The classic Humphrey Bogart/Ingrid Bergman film "Casablanca" has been shown on television more than any other movie.

• The youngest general in the history of the U.S. Army was George Custer — yes, that General Custer — at the age of 23.

Thought for the Day: "The cult of individual personalities is always, in my view, unjustified. To be sure, nature distributes her gifts variously among her children. But there are plenty of the well-endowed ones too, thank God, and I am firmly convinced that most of them live quiet, unregarded lives." — Albert Einstein
